Article 327 and of Article 328 of this Code, establishing the mechanism for the exercise of the right to file appeals against decisions of the justices of the peace and the powers of the appeals instance court in the consideration of the appeals complaints, as not corresponding to the Constitution of the Russian Federation in that measure, in which they do not grant to the persons, on whose rights and duties the justice of the peace has taken the decision without inviting these persons to participate in the case, the right to file appeals against the given court decision, and also do not envisage the legal right of the appeals instance court to direct the civil case to the justice of the peace for a new consideration in those cases, when the justice of the peace has considered the case in absentia of any one of the persons participating in the case and not notified about the time and place of the court session, or has resolved the issue of the rights and duties of the persons not invited to take part in the case.

The Decision of the Constitutional Court of the Russian Federation No. 4-P of February 27, 2009 recognized the provision of the first part of Article 284 of the present Code stipulating that the individual in relation to whom the case of his recognition as incompetent is considered shall be summoned to the court sitting, if the condition of his health makes it possible, as conflicting with the Constitution of the Russian Federation to the degree to which this provision - in the meaning attached to it by the existing law-application practice - allows the court to adopt the decision on the individual's recognition as incompetent solely on the basis of the opinion of forensic-psychiatric examination, without an opportunity offered to the individual, unless his presence at the court sitting creates threat to his life or health or to the life or health of the people around him, to set forth his position to the court in person or via the representatives chosen by him on his own, and also in association with provisions of the fifth part of Article 37, the first part of Article 52, Item 3 of the first part of Article 135, and of Item 2 of the first part of Article 379.1 of the present Code to the degree to which these provisions make it impossible for the individual, recognized as incompetent by the court, to appeal against the court decision in cassational and supervisory procedure, if the court of the first instance did not provide to this individual the opportunity to set forth his position in person or via the representatives chosen by him on his own, with account of the fact that his presence at the court sitting was not recognized as dangerous for his life or health or for the life or health of the people around him.

According to the Decision of the Constitutional Court of the Russian Federation No. 13-P of July 18, 2003 the rule, contained in interrelated Item 2 of Part One of Article 26, Parts One, Two and Four of Article 251, Parts Two and Three of Article 253 of this Code, which empowers a court of general jurisdiction to resolve cases on disputing constitutions and statutes of the subjects of the Russian Federation, and the rule, contained in interrelated Item 2 of Article 1 and Item 2 of Article 21 and Item 2 of Article 22 of the Federal Law on the Public Prosecutor's Office of the Russian Federation, Item 2 of Part One of Article 26 and Part One of Article 251 of this Code, which empowers a prosecutor to apply to a court of general jurisdiction for declaring the provisions of constitutions and statutes as contrary to federal laws shall be declared as not complying with the Constitution of the Russian Federation.

According to the Decision of the Constitutional Court of the Russian Federation No. 10-P of July 12, 2007, Paragraph Three of Part One of Article 446 of the Civil Procedural Code of the Russian Federation is acknowledged as not corresponding to the Constitution of the Russian Federation in that Part, in which it puts a prohibition on conversion of penalty on executive documents on the land lots, belonging to the debtor-citizen according to the law of property, and whose use is not connected with the performance by the debtor-citizen of a business activity and which are not the main source of existence or maintenance of an adequate level of existence of his own and of persons dependent on him.
