

2022 Aid for Trade Donor Questionnaire

INTRODUCTION

EMPOWERING CONNECTED SUSTAINABLE TRADE

By responding to this questionnaire, you will:

- Contribute to policy coherence by providing information on how you are integrating trade issues into your development or external investment strategies, policies or plans, and highlighting your Aid-for-Trade priorities, particularly in the context of the economic and trade recovery from the COVID-19 pandemic;
- Shed light on the transition towards sustainable development, the trade dimension to that process, what role digital connectivity can play, and how Aid for Trade can support environmentally sustainable (i.e., green) growth; and
- Highlight how Aid for Trade is contributing to women's economic empowerment.

Responses to this questionnaire will be published at the <http://www.aid4trade.org> website and will be analysed in the next edition of the joint OECD-WTO Aid for Trade at a Glance report. The report will be discussed at the 2022 Global Review of Aid for Trade. The theme of the Review is "Empowering Connected Sustainable Trade".

For any question or comment, you may write to us at aft.monitoring@wto.org

More information on Aid for Trade and the monitoring and evaluation exercise is available at www.wto.org/aidfortrade

2022 Aid for Trade Donor Questionnaire

INTRODUCTION

OVERVIEW

The Partner Country questionnaire should be completed by developing or least-developed countries receiving Aid-for-Trade support and is separated into three main sections that discuss:

1. Changes to your Aid-for-Trade priorities since 2019;
2. Development or aid policy(ies) for sustainable development; and
3. Development or aid policy(ies) for women's economic empowerment.

The questions are phrased to allow comparisons with your answers to previous monitoring exercises. If you do not have a record of previous answers, you can access them online at <http://www.aid4trade.org>

Guidance notes

Questions in this survey will ask you to consult policy documents, including development or aid and sectoral development strategies, policies or plans.

We request that answers reflect a "whole of government/organization" view. We encourage you to share the questionnaire with colleagues in other line ministries to arrive at a single coordinated view.

If you wish to view the full questionnaire as a PDF file that can also be shared by email, please follow this link: <http://www.wto.org/aftmonitoring>

We encourage you to complete answers by using the additional information boxes, but these are optional.

All responses received will be made publicly available.

Responses will be analysed by the OECD and WTO in the publication series: "Aid for Trade at a Glance". Please submit the completed questionnaire before the deadline of 31 DECEMBER 2021.

2022 Aid for Trade Donor Questionnaire

SECTION 1: AID-FOR-TRADE PRIORITIES

The objective of the first section is to assess if, and why, your Aid-for-Trade priorities have changed since 2019, particularly in the context of economic and trade recovery from the COVID-19 pandemic. It examines the reasons why you may have changed your strategy or priorities, and how those changes were integrated (i.e., mainstreamed) in your Aid-for-Trade or development strategy, policy or plan and included in your dialogue with development partners.

The WTO Task Force on Aid for Trade states that Aid for Trade is about assisting developing countries to increase exports of goods and services, to integrate into the multilateral trading system, and to benefit from liberalized trade and increased market access. Projects and programmes are considered as Aid for Trade if these activities have been identified as trade related development priorities in the recipient country's national development strategies.

The Task Force agreed the following benchmarks for global monitoring of Aid for Trade:

(a) Trade policy and regulations, including: training of trade officials, analysis of proposals and positions and their impact, support for national stakeholders to articulate commercial interest and identify trade offs, dispute issues, institutional and technical support to facilitate implementation of trade agreements and to adapt to and comply with rules and standards.

(b) Trade development, including: investment promotion, analysis and institutional support for trade in services, business support services and institutions, public private sector networking, e-commerce, trade finance, trade promotion, market analysis, and development.

(c) Trade related infrastructure: transport and storage, energy, and telecommunications.

(d) Building productive capacity for goods and services.

(e) Trade related adjustment, including supporting developing countries to put in place accompanying measures that assist them to benefit from liberalized trade.

(f) Other trade related needs.

SECTION 2: SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT AND TRADE

This second section aims to assess how sustainable development approaches are being programmed into trade and development policies – and how Aid for Trade is supporting that process.

The section examines the opportunities and challenges presented by the transition to sustainable development and trade. The questions posed in this section seek to harvest insights on development policy frameworks and perceptions about the economic and trade dimension of the move to sustainable development. Section two focuses on the environmental dimension of sustainable development.

One particular issue highlighted is the interface between sustainable development and economic/export diversification. Economic diversification (by extension export diversification) and supply side capacity enhancement are core rationales for the Aid-for-Trade Initiative. Questions in section 2 also examine to the role that Aid for Trade can play in supporting developing countries' efforts to achieve their sustainable trade objectives and further progress towards the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development.

More information on the interaction between the environmental dimension of sustainable development and trade is presented in the Joint Communication by the WTO and OECD Secretariat titled "Sustainable, Trade, Circular Economy and Aid for Trade – An Issues Paper for the 2020-2022 Monitoring and Evaluation Exercise". Click here to view document.

Another dimension explored is the interface between digital connectivity and sustainable development. The data generated by a growing array of digital devices can play a powerful role in informing policy making and the transition to sustainable development. In many developing countries though the digital divide means that this data is not collected, let alone analysed or used to inform policy making. In this context, this section asks respondents to provide information on the role that digital connectivity plays in their sustainable development plans and what more could be done to support that process.

SECTION 3: DEVELOPMENT OR AID POLICIES FOR WOMEN'S ECONOMIC EMPOWERMENT

This section examines the mainstreaming of women's economic empowerment into trade and development policies.

Goal 5 of the UN 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development aims to achieve gender equality and empower all women and girls. This objective can also be found in the 2006 Task Force on Aid for Trade (WT/AFT/1) which, in its guiding principles of operationalization, call for Aid for Trade to "be rendered in a coherent manner taking full account, inter alia, of the gender perspective and of the overall goal of sustainable development".

Section 3 requests respondents to discuss their development or aid policies for women's economic empowerment and how these interact with the other sustainable development goals in relation to trade, digital connectivity and gender equality, and how these can be supported by Aid for Trade.
