On page 12, paragraph 42, sentences three and four should be replaced by:

"The Korean trade régime was generally liberal. Korea had disinvoked GATT's balance-of-payments provisions and consequently would phase out remaining restrictions. Switzerland understood that for non-trade concerns this would be difficult in agriculture. Nevertheless, the tariff structure remained fairly complicated, health and technical restrictions sometimes had a negative effect on trade flows, and the requirement for Korean language labels on a range of imports hindered traders."
