SECURITY ARRANGEMENTS DURING THE EIGHTEENTH SESSION

Note by the Executive Secretary

In order to maintain sufficient security in the conference rooms and in delegation offices for the eighteenth session, the following arrangements have been made; delegations are invited to give their assistance in complying with them:

Offices in the Palais des Nations

Delegations are reminded of their responsibility for ensuring the safekeeping of classified documentation issued to them. Although the offices in the Palais cannot be locked, they are guarded by office attendants during office hours. Furthermore, offices are furnished with cupboards that can be locked thus assuring the security of any confidential material.

Offices in the Conference Building (63 rue de Lausanne)

Session delegates sharing offices with Tariff Conference delegations are requested to adhere strictly to the security arrangements prevailing in the Conference Building (see documents TN.60/INF/1 and Add.1 - 2, TN.60/7).

To ensure adequate security control at the entrance to the Conference Building, session delegates occupying offices there will be issued green admission cards for the duration of the session. These admission cards will be valid for entry to the conference rooms in the Palais des Nations as well. They will be issued only to session delegates accredited in writing to the eighteenth session by their government. They can be obtained from the Tariff Conference secretariat office No. 707 in the building.

Conference rooms (Palais des Nations)

All persons entering the conference rooms in the Palais will be required to show their admission cards.
Attention is invited to the fact that all the documentation for the session is restricted and is available only to members of delegations participating in the work of the session. No further dissemination should be made of the information contained in these documents, and particular care should be taken in any remarks made to journalists.
