THIRTY-EIGHTH GATT COMMERCIAL POLICY COURSE
OPENS IN GENEVA

The thirty-eighth Commercial Policy Course organized by GATT opens on 1 August 1974. The course, for French-speaking officials from developing countries, will run until 13 December. There are twenty participants, drawn from the same number of countries.

The GATT secretariat has organized two commercial policy courses each year since 1955, one for English-speaking participants from February to June, and the other for French-speaking participants from August to December. The courses are open to officials both from countries which are members of GATT and from non-member countries, who have, or may in future have, responsibilities in the formulation and conduct of foreign trade policy in their countries.

The courses, which have a practical orientation, are designed to give the participants greater understanding of trade policy matters and to provide them with a full knowledge of the work being done by GATT which will be helpful to them in their tasks within their own administrations. Lectures are also given on the work done by other international organizations in the field of trade policy. As in the past three courses, special attention will be paid to the trade negotiations initiated at Tokyo last September.

Fellowships for these courses are provided by the United Nations Development Programme.

Over the past eighteen years, 463 officials from ninety-five countries have participated in the commercial policy courses. In addition to GATT secretariat officials, many guest lecturers are invited to contribute to the courses, in particular senior officials of government delegations and international organizations, university professors, etc.
