The GATT secretariat has been informed by the Danish authorities that the liberalization of imports into Denmark has recently been extended. Imports of the following items have been liberalized:

- live swine,
- reindeer meat,
- olives and certain other fruits,
- fresh and preserved,
- rubber soles and heels,
- motor-cycle sidecars,
- some electrical equipment,
- non-electric lamps and lightings.

In addition, a number of adjustments have been made in the "negative list" of restricted imports in order to facilitate the administration of the import control. In the view of the Danish authorities, this has in all instances had the effect of expanding the liberalization.
