The final English translation of the text of the Treaty establishing the European Economic Community has been received in the secretariat and is distributed herewith. The Interim Committee for the Common Market and the Euratom has advised that the attached publication has been made for the convenience of third countries, but that it ought not be considered as an official text. Only the texts drawn up in the Dutch, French, German and Italian languages are to be considered as official.