Dear Sir,

Attached you will find a copy of a letter to one of the six developed countries currently giving courses or providing other training facilities for less-developed countries trainees by arrangement through this Centre. It announces a May 12-13 meeting at the Centre to discuss the problems of fitting such facilities to the special needs of the trainees.

You will see from the next to last paragraph that the presence of export promotion experts from less-developed countries is particularly desired, as it would be helpful in ensuring that the special training needs of organizations and institutions sponsoring candidates are fully taken into account. Alternatively a former trainee might be detailed to attend the meeting.

Yours sincerely,

H.L. Jacobson,
Director of the Centre
