RESPONSE FROM THE REPUBLIC OF KOREA
TO THE QUESTION RAISED BY THE CANADIAN DELEGATION

Article 4:8 of the Presidential Decree stipulates that, as a general rule, an anti-dumping measure will lose its effect three years from the date of its imposition. However, as an exception to this rule, the Minister may alternatively choose the specific application period of an anti-dumping measure for the case in question if the three-year period is deemed inappropriate considering the dumping margin, the degree of injury and public interests, etc.

Our experience tells us that the application period specifically fixed by the Minister has been shorter than the ordinary three-year sunset period.
