1. The Spanish statistics for the first and second quarters of 1980 contain a transcription error. All the data in respect of the United States refer to skimmed milk intended for animal feed.

2. It should be noted that there may be certain discrepancies as between the Spanish statistics on skimmed milk powder imports in the first and second quarters of 1980 and data furnished by exporting countries because of the fact that the Spanish statistics refer to the moment when goods enter Spanish customs territory. In certain cases, exports are delivered to customs warehouses where they are held for some time, and are only recorded in the statistics when, as already stated, they actually enter the national territory.
