"Mr. FORTHOMME (Belgium) invited by the Chairman to reply to the discussion, said it was a mistake to think that the luxury of disunity could be afforded in times of assured security. The danger which constantly threatened us was disunity itself. Therefore, the Charter should be an instrument for mutual aid between nations."