1. As part of the April TNC Agreement, participants agreed to a package of short-term reform measures aimed at signalling their commitment to long-term liberalization of agricultural trade. An important element of the package on short-term elements was the participants' agreement to report on their compliance with the undertakings to freeze existing levels of support and reduce support and protection levels in 1990.

2. Further to Australia's notification on cutback commitments for 1990, as contained in MTN.GNG/NG5/W/116, and its compliance report, as contained in MTN.GNG/NG5/W/134, Australia therefore wishes to present its second report, setting out its further compliance with the commitment to ensure that domestic and export support and protection levels prevailing in April 1989 in the agricultural sector were not subsequently exceeded. Australia makes this report in light of the draft guidelines provided by the secretariat in MTN.GNG/NG5/W/117.

3. Australia is pleased to confirm that no new programmes have been introduced to increase support to the agricultural sector. Indeed, the Government is continuing its efforts to restructure domestic agriculture to make it more responsive to market signals. While support and protection levels applying to agriculture at 1 June 1990 were not changed from those applying at 1 December 1989, a number of industries will have significant reductions in support or protection applying from 1 July 1990. These sectors include wine, dried vine fruits and tobacco. Details of changes for these sectors are set out in the attachment. Other sectors such as sugar, apples and pears will undergo further reductions in assistance later in 1990-91. Other industries, including beef, sheepmeat, oilseeds, rice and cotton are not directly supported by any Federal Government programmes.

4. The industry details contained in the accompanying attachment are supplementary to, and to be read in conjunction with, those in MTN.GNG/NG5/W/134 and summarize Australia's compliance with the short-term undertakings made at the April TNC.
