Page 5, paragraph 3 (Mr. COUILLARD's remarks)

The statement should read:

"Mr. COUILLARD (Canada) said that his Government recognized that the matters arising out of Japan's application are of great importance. These were of importance to a number of contracting parties, to the General Agreement itself and to Japan. He recognized the importance which Japan attached to its accession. He therefore hoped that a generally acceptable solution could be found. He thought the most appropriate procedure would be to submit to a careful study the details of the matter involved. In his view, only after this had been done could the Committee address itself to the question of the terms of Japan's accession. The Canadian Delegation would wish to state its views on the question of timing when this question came up."

The last sentence in the second paragraph should read:

"His Government was prepared to examine the conclusions which the Committee might reach at the end of its deliberations; he expressed the hope, however, that these conclusions would conform with the General Agreement and would not be of such a kind as to provide justification for discrimination against Japanese goods."
