ARGENTINA – MEASURES AFFECTING THE IMPORTATION OF GOODS

Request for the Establishment of a Panel by the European Union

The following communication, dated 6 December 2012, from the delegation of the European Union to the Chairman of the Dispute Settlement Body, is circulated pursuant to Article 6.2 of the DSU.

On 25 May 2012, the European Union requested consultations with the Government of Argentina ("Argentina") pursuant to, inter alia, Articles 1 and 4 of the Understanding on Rules and Procedures Governing the Settlement of Disputes ("DSU"), Article XXII of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade 1994 ("GATT 1994") and Article 6 of the Agreement on Import Licensing Procedures ("ILP Agreement") concerning certain measures imposed by Argentina on the importation of goods into Argentina. The European Union held consultations with Argentina on 12 and 13 July 2012. Those consultations unfortunately did not resolve the dispute.

As a result, the European Union respectfully requests that a Panel be established to examine this matter pursuant to Article 6 of the DSU, Article XXIII:2 of the GATT 1994 and Article 6 of the ILP Agreement.

1. DECLARACION JURADA ANTICIPADA DE IMPORTACION REQUIREMENT

As of 1 February 2012,¹ Argentina has required importers to submit a Declaración Jurada Anticipada de Importación for all imports of goods into Argentina (the "DJAI Requirement").² Relevant legal instruments comprising this measure are listed in Annex I to this request.

This measure requires an importer, prior to the importation of goods, to submit an affidavit with certain information, which is processed by the Administración Federal de Ingresos Públicos ("AFIP") and then transmitted to participating governmental entities. These bodies may suspend approval of an importer's submission by placing an "observation" (observaciones) that serves as a hold on the submission in the DJAI electronic system. Until that hold is lifted, the DJAI will not be "validated" (estado salida) and the products cannot be imported. However, the conditions for approval of DJAIs are not stated in Argentine legal instruments, nor are they published or otherwise made available to other Members or traders. In addition, Argentina enforces the restrictive trade related requirements described below at Section III by, inter alia, withholding the issuance of DJAI approvals.

¹ The DJAI system was established on 5 January 2012 and the requirement was made effective as of 1 February 2012.

² There are certain narrow exceptions to the DJAI Requirement, including inter alia for samples, donations, and diplomatic and courier shipments.

The European Union considers that, by adopting and maintaining the DJAI Requirement, Argentina has acted inconsistently with the following WTO provisions:

- Article X:1 of the GATT 1994, because Argentina has failed to publish promptly, in such a manner as to enable governments and traders to become acquainted with them, laws, regulations and administrative rulings of general application pertaining to the operation of the DJAI Requirement.
- Article X:3(a) of the GATT 1994, because the DJAI Requirement is not administered in a uniform, reasonable and impartial manner.
- Article XI:1 of the GATT 1994, because the DJAI Requirement prohibits or restricts the importation of goods.
- Article 1.3 of the ILP Agreement, because the rules for its application are not neutral in application or administered in a fair and equitable manner.
- Article 1.4(a) of the ILP Agreement because Argentina has not published the rules and all information concerning procedures for the submission of applications, in the sources notified to the Committee on Import Licensing, in such a manner as to enable governments and traders to become acquainted with them.
- Article 1.6 of the ILP Agreement, because application and renewal procedures for DJAIs are not as simple as possible and applicants can be required to approach more than three administrative bodies.
- Article 3.2 of the ILP Agreement, because the DJAI Requirement constitutes a non-automatic import licensing procedure and has trade-restrictive or -distortive effects on imports additional to those caused by the imposition of any restriction that this measure is purported to implement; because the DJAI Requirement is broader in scope and duration than any measure it is used to implement; and because it is more administratively burdensome than absolutely necessary to administer any such measure.
- Article 3.3 of the ILP Agreement, because Argentina has not published sufficient information for other Members and traders to know the basis for granting and/or allocating licenses.
- Article 3.5(f) of the ILP Agreement, because the period for processing applications exceeds the maximum permitted by that provision.

2. NON-AUTOMATIC IMPORT LICENSING REQUIREMENT

Argentina subjects the importation of certain goods into Argentina to a non-automatic import license requirement (Licencias No Automáticas de Importación) by requiring Certificados de Importación as a condition for the importation of goods (the "CI Requirement"). The CI Requirement currently covers nearly 600 tariff lines over 17 product groups. The legal instruments covering those product groups are set out in Annex II. However, the conditions for granting CIs are not stated in Argentine legal instruments, nor are they published or otherwise made available to other Members or traders. In addition, Argentina enforces the restrictive trade related requirements described below at Section III by, inter alia, withholding the issuance of CIs.

The European Union considers that, when viewed as a single regime, or alternatively as 17 individual import licensing procedures, the CI Requirement is inconsistent with the following WTO provisions:

- Article X:1 of the GATT 1994, because Argentina has failed to publish promptly in such a manner as to enable governments and traders to become acquainted with them laws, regulations and administrative rulings of general application pertaining to the operation of the CI Requirement.
- Article X:3(a) of the GATT 1994, because the CI Requirement is not administered in a uniform, reasonable and impartial manner.
- Article XI:1 of the GATT 1994, because the CI Requirement prohibits or restricts the importation of goods.
- Article 1.3 of the ILP Agreement, because the rules for its application are not neutral in application or administered in a fair and equitable manner.
- Article 1.4(a) of the ILP Agreement because Argentina has not published the rules and all information concerning procedures for the submission of applications, in the sources notified to the Committee on Import Licensing, in such a manner as to enable governments and traders to become acquainted with them.
- Article 3.2 of the ILP Agreement, because the CI Requirement constitutes a non-automatic import licensing procedure and has trade-restrictive or -distortive effects on imports additional to those caused by the imposition of any restriction that the CI Requirement purports to implement; because it is broader in scope and duration than any measure it is used to implement; and because it is more administratively burdensome than absolutely necessary to administer any such measure.
- Article 3.3 of the ILP Agreement, because Argentina has not published sufficient information for other Members and traders to know the basis for granting and/or allocating licenses.
- Article 3.5(f) of the ILP Agreement, because the period for processing applications exceeds the maximum permitted by that provision.

3. RESTRICTIVE TRADE RELATED REQUIREMENTS

Separately and/or in combination with the above measures described in Sections I and II, Argentina requires economic operators to undertake certain actions with a view to pursuing Argentina's stated policy objectives of elimination of trade balance deficits and import substitution. Those actions include to: (1) export a certain value of goods from Argentina related to the value of imports; (2) limit the volume of imports and/or reduce their price; (3) refrain from repatriating funds from Argentina to another country; (4) make or increase investments in Argentina (including in production facilities); and/or (5) incorporate local content into domestically produced goods.

These requirements are not stipulated in any published law or regulation. To satisfy these requirements, economic operators normally either submit a statement or conclude an agreement with Argentina setting out the actions they will take. Argentina enforces these requirements by withholding permission to import, inter alia, by withholding the issuance of DJAI or CI approvals.

The European Union considers that these requirements, when viewed as an overarching measure aiming at eliminating trade balance deficits and/or substituting imports by domestic products, as well as when viewed as separate measures in each of the instances listed in Annex III, and whether analysed separately or together with the measures described in Sections I and II, are inconsistent with the following

- Article III:4 of GATT 1994, to the extent that Argentina requires domestic producers to increase local content and/or limit imports to an amount related to the volume or value of local products that they export.
- Article X:1 of the GATT 1994, because Argentina has failed to publish promptly in such a manner as to enable governments and traders to become acquainted with the laws, regulations and administrative rulings of general application pertaining to the operation of the measure.
- Article XI:1 of the GATT 1994, because the measure prohibits or restricts the importation of goods.

* * * * *

Accordingly, the European Union respectfully requests that the Dispute Settlement Body establish a panel to examine this matter, with the standard terms of reference as set out in Article 7.1 of the DSU.
